

A QUICK START GUIDE FOR FACULTY

REVIEW SUPPORT RESOURCES

- Learn about accessibility standards
- Read FAQs for students and researchers
- Visit the Data Planet Research Guides, which highlight sources and datasets by discipline and provide general information about data and Data Planet.
- Take a self-guided tour of the site and all the key features and tools of the platform by clicking the Self Help button on the right side of the Data Planet page.

EXPLORE

- Run a quick search
- Browse by subject, source, or geography
- Navigate search result filters across years, databases, level of detail, subjects, and key terms

HIGHLIGHT AND ENCOURAGE

- Incorporate data embeds into learning management systems and websites
- Share entries from the Data Basics reference library
- Reference Data Planet in your syllabus

STAY UPDATED

- The Data Planet Blog is written and curated by Data Planet's Executive Editor, Jill Blaemers and is designed to keep you informed about interesting trends in data and content updates within Data Planet. Sign up for email alerts to receive notification of newly added content.

REQUEST LIVE TRAINING OR CURRICULUM ALIGNMENT

- Schedule general resource overviews or custom research workshops for yourself, your department, and your students
- Receive recommended Data Planet content mapped to your syllabus